Syllabus

Course Description: Principles of Macroeconomics is a course designed to teach the basic concepts and tools used for economic analysis. One of the goals of this course is to inform students who may be considering pursuing a degree in economics, and to prepare them for future coursework. The other goal is to teach you how to think like an economist, and apply economic reasoning to everyday situations. Even relatively simple economic principles can be powerful tools, and understanding them is important even for non-economists.

2. www.myeconlab.com – This website will be referred to as MyEconLab. All graded items are completed in the MyEconLab website. Graded items include discussions, homework, quizzes, and tests. This website also includes chapter resources. The chapter resources section of the website includes personalized study tools, PPT notes, lecture videos, dynamic study modules (shown to increase knowledge by 25%), interactive graphs, and economic news. Students can also access the etext from this website (if purchased). Students can also email me from this website.

Schedule: A course calendar with all due dates is available in the Course Schedule in the Getting Started folder of D2L. In addition there is a calendar available at www.myeconlab.com. Login to the Pearson My Lab website and select the Course Home. The calendar should appear as an option within Course Home tab on the left hand side of the Pearson My Lab website.

Evaluation of the Students Performance: Students can view performance in the course by selecting the RESULTS tab within MyEconLab website. The overall numerical average is used to assign the letter grade in the class. 90% or better would constitute an A, 80% - 89.9% is considered a B, 70% - 79.9% is considered a C, 60% - 69.9% is considered a D, and any numerical average lower than 60 is considered a F.

Discussion Board	10%
Homework	15%
Quizzes	15%
Exams (5 exams @ 12% each)	60%
Total	100%

Course Requirements: Requirements will include the following tasks:

Discussion – The discussion board can be found under the Communication Tools tab in the Pearson My Lab website. Participation in the discussion board is mandatory and counts towards a student’s Participation Grade labeled Other Average in the grade book. Questions, comments, and answering other student’s posts increase a student’s discussion grade with the possibility of extra credit. Due dates for the discussion questions and responses are available in the Communications tab. There are two due dates for each chapter discussion. One due date is for discussion questions and the other is for a response to a question.

Homework – Homework is available in the Assignments tab within the MyEconLab website. Students must select the homework and then click the question that you would like to view. Answer the question and select Check Answer. Students do not have to complete the entire homework assignment at one time, however each question should be complete prior to the homework due date. Homework submitted after the due date receives a 30 percent penalty.

Quizzes – The quizzes are available in the MyEconLab website. Students are given only one attempt at the quiz. Once the quiz is launched students must complete the quiz within the allocated time. There is no option to save the quiz and return later to complete the quiz. Students will receive a zero for quizzes that are not submitted by the due date.

Exams – The exams are completed within the MyEconLab website. The days the exams are available is on the schedule provided. Once the exam is launched students must complete the exam within the allocated time. There is no option to save the exam and return later to complete it. Students will receive a zero for exams that are not submitted by the due date.

Optional Comprehensive Final Exam – The OPTIONAL comprehensive final exam will replace a student’s lowest exam grade. The optional final exam cannot hurt your grade. For instance, if a student has scores of 75, 80, 85, 90, and 95 on the 5 exams and then scores a 60 on the optional final exam then the final exam score of 60 will not replace one of the higher exam scores.

Study Plan and Dynamic Study – These two amazing resources are available within the MyEconLab website. These tools are not a part of the final course grade, but are great tools to use when preparing for the quizzes and exams.

Available Assistance: THE BEST WAY TO CONTACT ME IS THROUGH EMAIL. Students often have questions when completing the homework within the MyEconLab website. Students can select the Question Help link within the homework and email instructor (be aware that my response will go to the email address that you used when registering for MyEconLab. Email is available in D2L and my email address is donald.payne@brazosport.edu. Students can also call me at 979-230-3338. I will not have on campus scheduled office hours due to COVID-19, however I will have virtual office hours. Virtual office hour times will be posted as a news announcement in the D2L website. Schedule a meeting by emailing me at donald.payne@brazosport.edu. Late Work: Quizzes and exams will not be accepted late. A 30 percent penalty will be assessed to homework assignments submitted after the due date. Plan ahead and submit all discussions, homework, quizzes, and exams as early as possible. Do not wait a couple of hours before the item is due to turn in homework, quizzes, or exams as the internet may be down causing the homework to be late.

Withdrawals: Withdrawal from a course is, first and foremost, the student's responsibility. An instructor may process an "administrative withdrawal" on a student for excessive absences. However, it is the student's responsibility to ensure, prior to the deadline for withdrawal, that he/she has been officially withdrawn. Because you stop attending a class, does not mean that you have officially withdrawn from the class.
