ONLINE PLUS LIVE!

In order to promote student success and community, each course will require student attendance at two scheduled synchronous course meetings during the term. Attendance is mandatory and graded. If a student fails to attend, he/she must watch the recorded session and set a follow-up one-on-one meeting with the professor. If the student fails to attend and follow-up with the professor, he/she will receive a zero meeting grade.

Meetings will take place via a virtual meeting platform. Professors will use Doodle, a scheduling tool, to help select times that are most convenient for students.

The first live meeting will be schedule and held before the end of Week 2. The second live meeting will be scheduled by the course professor to occur during weeks 3-6 (prior to the start of week 7). Students are expected to check their email for dates and times of each meeting. If students have questions about these meetings, they should contact their professor directly

COURSE COMMUNICATION

Behavior Standards: OCU requires that students maintain professional standards of behavior. This also includes civility in the online classroom. Review the Behavior Standards in the catalog including the netiquette guidelines.

Announcements: Course announcements will be provided to students on a weekly basis through the online course.

Questions: Students should pose questions to the professor using the professor's OCU email address or through the Professor Updates/Q&A Forum in the online course.

Discussions: Students are expected to submit initial discussion posts by the end of day four of the week. Following the initial discussion post, students are expected to engage in ongoing dialogue with peers and the professor in the course within the discussion thread until the end of the module. Students should post two replies on two separate days by the end of the week (Day 7). At least one of your replies needs to be in response to a question posted by your professor. However, students should take responsibility for leading in the discussions beyond the minimum expectation. Responses to peers should be thoughtful, informed, and relevant to the course material. Students are encouraged to pose questions and appropriately challenge their peers to enhanced learning through discussions. Please review the discussion rubric in the online course for further guidance.

Turnaround/Feedback: Assignment feedback and grades will be provided by the professor within one week from the assignment submission due date. The professor will provide responses to other communications, such as emails, within 24 hours.

ATTENDANCE AND LATE WORK POLICIES

Attendance Requirement

Weekly activity is required each week in online courses. Attendance records are maintained by the teaching professor. Attendance includes posting in forums and completing assignments. If you are not active in a course during a week (Mon-Sun), you will be marked absent.

Due Dates: All submitted assignments are due the last day of each school week; for example, a Tuesday to Monday school week would require all submitted assignments to be due by midnight of each Monday. All initial posts within Discussion forums are due the fourth day (see Discussions rubric for details), but students are encouraged to post sooner. This is in order to ensure quality interaction throughout the week.

Late Work: Assignments submitted within 24 hours past the due date will have a 10% late penalty of the final assignment grade. Assignments submitted within 48 hours past the due date will have a 20% late penalty of the final assignment grade. Assignments submitted between 3-7 days late will receive a 50% late penalty of the final assignment grade. Assignments submitted beyond seven days past the due date are not accepted.

ACADEMIC HONESTY POLICY

Students are expected to be honest in all their academic work and are responsible for their own work for course requirements. Scholastic dishonesty is a violation of both academic standards and biblical teachings, and is an affront to other students and the faculty. Academic dishonesty includes the following:

- Cheating on assignments and tests.
- Plagiarism. The student is responsible for knowing the legitimate and illegitimate use of source material in written work. Faculty members are expected to be aware of and make decisions on instances of plagiarism. As a general guideline, plagiarism is defined by Lucas (2010) as “presenting another person’s language or ideas as one’s own.” There are three types of plagiarism:
 1. Global plagiarism: “stealing a paper or speech entirely from a single source and passing it off as one’s own.”
 2. Patchwork plagiarism: “stealing ideas or language from two or three sources and passing them off as one’s own.”
 3. Incremental plagiarism: “failing to give credit for particular parts of a paper or speech that are borrowed from other people.”

The Art of Public Speaking, 2010, by Stephen E. Lucas, McGraw-Hill, pp. 36-39.
- Submitting a paper or project in which part or the entirety was done by someone else. (This does not include designated group assignments in which the student participates.)
- Allowing another student to submit writing that is not their own.
- Any act that violates the rights of other students from completing their academic assignments (e.g., deliberate withholding of necessary academic material, willful harm to another student’s work).

All instances of academic dishonesty must be reported by the faculty member to the Academic Office through agshonestypolicy@ohiochristian.edu for recording in the student’s permanent file. If faculty need assistance determining whether a paper is plagiarized according to the OCU policy, insert “Assistance Needed” in the subject line or contact the program director for assistance. The ramifications depend on whether the student is enrolled in an undergraduate or a graduate program.

- Undergraduate: For a student’s first offense, he/she will earn a zero grade on the assignment. Failing a final or significant assignment may result in failure of the entire course. For the second offense, the student will fail the course and be placed on academic probation. For the third offense, the student will fail the course and may be suspended from Ohio Christian University.
- Graduate: For the student's first offense, the student will fail the course and be placed on academic probation. For the second offense, the student will fail the course and be suspended from Ohio Christian University.

A student who has been suspended for academic reasons may petition for readmission after six months. Returned students receiving another academic dishonesty offense will receive permanent expulsion.

A student wishing to appeal the decision may follow the Academics Policy Grievance instructions in the catalog.
