COURSE COMMUNICATION

Behavior Standards: OCU requires that students maintain professional standards of behavior. This also includes civility in the online courseroom. Review the Behavior Standards outlined in the current Academic Catalog.

Announcements: Course announcements will be provided on a weekly basis through the online course on the Course Home page.

Questions: Students should pose questions to the professor using the professor's OCU email address or through the Professor Updates/Q&A Forum in the online course.

Discussions: Students are expected to submit initial discussion posts by the end of day four of the week. Following the initial discussion post, students are expected to engage in ongoing dialogue with peers and the professor in the course within the discussion thread until the end of the module. Unless otherwise noted in the instructions for the discussion, the minimum expectation for responses to peer posts is two. However, students should take responsibility for leading in the discussions beyond the minimum expectation. Responses to peers should be thoughtful, informed, and relevant to the course material. Students are encouraged to pose questions and appropriately challenge their peers to enhanced learning through discussions. Please review the discussion rubric in the online course for further guidance.

Turnaround/Feedback: Ohio Christian University's grading policy provides professors up to 7 days from the assignment due date to grade all student work. The professor will provide responses to other communications, such as emails, within 24 hours.

ATTENDANCE AND LATE WORK POLICIES

Attendance: Please review the attendance requirements for your course's modality outlined in the current Academic Catalog.

- You will be marked present for the week if you post or submit to any graded item during the seven days of that week. (Late work is counted as 'present' per the date submitted, not the week for which the late work is due.)
- You will be marked absent for the week if you do not post or submit to any graded item during the seven days of that week.

Due Dates: Discussions require you to post an initial post by mid-week (Day 4) and to post two replies to peers on two separate days by the end of the week (Day 7). Devotionals require you to post only an initial post by the end of the week (Day 7). All drop box assignments are due by the end of the week (Day 7).

Late Work: Discussion posts, Devotional Posts, and Assignments submitted late will be subject to a late penalty:

- Work submitted within 24 hours past the due date will have a 10% late penalty of the final assignment grade.
- Work submitted within 48 hours past the due date will have a 20% late penalty of the final assignment grade.
- Work submitted between 3-7 days late will receive a 50% late penalty of the final assignment grade.
- Work submitted beyond seven days past the due date is not accepted.

For extenuating circumstances, refer to the Incomplete Grades Policy in the Academic Catalog.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY POLICY

Students are expected to be honest in all academic work and are responsible for their own work for course requirements. Scholastic dishonesty is a violation of academic standards and biblical teachings and an affront to other students and the faculty.

Violations of the Academic Integrity Policy include, but are not limited to:

- Cheating on assignments and tests, such as
 - obtaining quiz or exam questions in advance
 - providing information to others about a quiz or exam
 - looking at a cell phone during a quiz or exam
- Turning in assignments in which part or the entirety was done by someone else.
- Providing work to another student to submit as his or her own.
- Plagiarism: Using or copying someone else's words, ideas, opinions, theories, or work and passing them off as one's own (i.e., without crediting the source).
- Self-plagiarism: Reusing or resubmitting previously written work as though it were newly and specifically completed for the current assignment. Examples of self-plagiarism and additional information on this topic are available in the Student Toolkit in the learning management system. If a student has concerns about self-plagiarism or would like to use past work in a present course (e.g., continue a research study), it is the student's responsibility to discuss the plan with his/her professor beforehand.
- The use of online software such as auto-paraphrasing tools or 'article spinners.'

- Uploading or downloading course materials or information on sites known to assist in cheating, such as Course Hero or Chegg.
- An act that violates the rights of other students by hindering their completion of academic assignments (e.g., deliberate withholding of necessary academic material, or willful harm to another student's work).

All instances of academic dishonesty must be reported by the faculty member to the Academic Office through honestypolicy@ohiochristian.edu for recording in the student's permanent file. If faculty need assistance determining whether a paper is plagiarized according to the OCU policy, insert "Assistance Needed" in the subject line or contact the Dean for assistance. The ramifications depend on whether the student is enrolled in an undergraduate or a graduate program.

- Undergraduate: For a student's first offense, the student will earn a zero grade on the assignment. This could result in failure of the course, depending on the significance of the assignment. For the second offense, the student will fail the course and be placed on academic probation. For the third offense, the student will fail the course and may be suspended from Ohio Christian University.
- Graduate: For the student's first offense, the student will fail the course and be placed on academic probation. For the second offense, the student will fail the course and be suspended from Ohio Christian University.

Students suspended under this policy may petition for readmission after a six-month absence. Returned students found to have committed another cheating offense will be permanently expelled.

A student who believes a charge of violating the academic integrity policy to be unjust, or who believe a penalty for such is unfair, may submit an appeal to honestypolicy@ohiochristian.edu.
